I .The first commercial flight of the SpaceX Dream Chaser space plane successfully touched down on a runway at Kennedy Space Center. The space plane had been launched to the International Space Station from Cape Canaveral. After a second engine shut down for landing, the landing was successful. The space plane was supposed to do a fly-by of the station to celebrate the recovery, but it landed too slowly. SpaceX said it landed at an altitude of 15 feet and a speed of 12 mph. The space plane had already docked at the space station. It is loaded with supplies and equipment for the crew to live there for up to seven weeks while awaiting the return of the Dragon cargo ship on Feb. 25. Since then, Dream Chaser engineers have been working non-stop to get the space plane ready for return to Earth. Its first mission, scheduled for June, will be a simulated docked landing with the station. Two more launches are planned. Below, watch a replay of today's landing, a live webcast of which started at 10:40 a.m. EST (1440 GMT).
